

ART ACROSS THE CURRICULUM | ART AND HISTORY COLONY TO NATION: FIRST CONTACT ADAPTATION FOR EAL

LEVELS 5-6 (EAL PATHWAY B LEVELS B1 AND B2)

OVERVIEW

This resource introduces students learning English as an Additional Language (EAL) to Australia's contact history and frontier conflict with original works from the NGV Collection. Students discuss the establishment of a British penal colony in Australia, according to the concept of Terra Nullius, and the effect this had on the original owners of the land. These events will be considered from the perspectives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, the colonised, and first settlers, the colonisers.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Describe significant events in Australian history; in particular the arrival of the British and the effect of Terra Nullius on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples.
- Describe the experiences and perspectives of the European settlers and the Gweagal and Kamaygal people at the time of First Contact.
- Use a range of descriptive phrases to analyse and interpret themes, concepts and ideas in Australian works from different times and cultures.
- Identify and connect specific aspects of works to a wider historical, cultural and social context.

GUIDE TO USING THIS RESOURCE FOR TEACHERS

The following worksheets have been designed for use in conjunction with the NGV Art and History resource Colony to Nation: First Contact. It includes important background information about the artworks and links to the Victorian History Curriculum. please refer to https://www.ngv.vic.gov.au/school_resource/art-and-history-colony-to-nation-first-contact/.

Adaptation for EAL learners	Corresponding section in Art and History resource Colony to Nation: First Contact
Worksheet A. Introduction to First Contact	1. Introduction to first contact. p. 2 2. See, think wonder. p. 3-4
Worksheet B. See, think, feel: Nouns and adjectives
Worksheet C. See, think, feel: Similarities and differences

Worksheet E. See, think, feel: Noun groups (Level B2)
Worksheet F. What's in a shield?	3. What's in a shield? p. 5-7

Before visiting the Gallery, engage EAL learners in discussions about the history of their home countries. Ask them what they know about the history of Australia and make connections with their prior knowledge and understandings. Together, create a K-W-L Chart (What I know, What I want to know, What I learned). *Note: some topics may be sensitive for refugee students.

WORKSHEET A. INTRODUCTION TO FIRST CONTACT

Provide EAL learners with an image of the E. Phillips Fox's artwork Landing of Captain Cook at Botany Bay for contextual support. Additional images of the first settlers arriving in Botany Bay may be needed to support understanding. Have an initial discussion about the artwork to elicit what language students know.

Possible steps for explicitly teaching detailed reading² of 'Introduction to First Contact' include:

- Pre-teach any key vocabulary, providing visuals where possible.
- Read the text aloud with the students listening and following along.
- Model reading the text again, highlighting key, unfamiliar or new words for students.
- Students can then highlight their own key, unfamiliar or new words following teacher model.
- Ask prompt questions to extend students' understanding of the key vocabulary and ideas in the text (e.g. How did Lieutenant James Cook come to Australia? He sailed on a boat. What did James Cook tell the British government? That it would be a good place for people from Britain to settle).
- Engage students in pair, group and independent reading of the text to further develop their comprehension.
- Develop word walls and vocabulary lists of new and unfamiliar words from the text (including any bilingual translations to support understanding).
- Complete post-reading activities to consolidate understanding (cloze activities, synonyms and reading comprehension).
- visual representation

WORKSHEETS B & C. SEE, THINK, FEEL

These activities provide students with opportunities to analyse and interpret the artworks through the different language modes (Speaking & listening, Reading & viewing, and Writing).

Allowing students to move between their home language and English (translanguaging) enables them to develop their knowledge and skills³. This can be supported through the use of a bilingual dictionary and creating personal word lists.

WORKSHEETS D & E. SEE, THINK, FEEL: NOUN GROUPS (LEVELS B1 & B2)

Each worksheet has been differentiated for levels B1 and B2 and provides examples and models for students to use the target language. They are then able to create words and sentences using their own thoughts and ideas.

When describing what they see, think and feel, students will need to be explicitly taught specific grammatical structures (e.g. creating noun groups and using conjunctions in compound and complex sentences).

This pre-visit warmup activity can be extended into the activity: See, think, wonder at the Gallery. Students can continue using descriptive phrases to talk about the artworks and share their thoughts, ideas and questions.

Brief overview of Noun groups:

- Describers (adjectives) describe the thing (noun) and follows a specific order: 1) opinion, 2) size, 3) shape, 4) condition, 5) age, 6) colour, 7) pattern
- Classifiers (also adjectives) explain what category the thing (noun) belongs to (e.g. kind/type): 8) origin, 9) material, 10) purpose
- Qualifiers provide additional information to the noun (thing). Most qualifiers start with either a relative pronoun (which, that), prepositional phrase (in, with, under, on, by, etc.) or an embedded clause containing a verb (e.g. running, holding, walking, found)

WORKSHEETS F & G. WHAT'S IN A SHIELD?

Provide EAL learners with a coloured copy of the Picture dictionary and Glossary either at school or in the gallery to assist with new and unfamiliar words (colours, shapes, patterns, materials).

At the gallery, give students a brief overview about the history of shields in Australia. Ask students to use the new vocabulary to talk about what they can see. Students can then draw and label two shields using the template.

Ask students to imagine who the maker of one of the shields is. They can either talk or write about the maker using the prompt questions This can later be used a prompt for students to talk or write a short story about the maker.

WORKSHEET A.

INTRODUCTION TO FIRST CONTACT

Detailed reading

In 1770, Lieutenant James Cook sailed on a boat and landed on the east coast of Australia. He named it New South Wales and claimed it for Britain. Aboriginal people had already been living in Australia for over 65,000 years, but the British described it as Terra Nullius which means "land belonging to no one". This could also mean unoccupied or uninhabited by law. James Cook told the British government that it would be a good place for people from Britain to settle.

Ten years later, Britain lost colonies in America during the American War of Independence (1775-1783). Therefore, Britain saw Australia as an opportunity to get more land and territory. They could also trade with other countries in the South Pacific. This would give people work, reduce crime and provide a place for criminals. So, New South Wales became the first penal settlement for convicts from Britain.

Settlement from Britain began when 11 ships sailed into Botany Bay in New South Wales in 1788. The ships carried more than 1300 Europeans, including officers, marines and 780 convicts. Everything on this new land was unfamiliar and exciting.

The Aboriginal owners of this particular Country, the Gweagal and Kamaygal people, watched the British people arrive. This was the beginning of a conflict between the Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal people.

This painting is called Landing of Captain Cook at Botany Bay, 1770 by Australian artist E. Phillips Fox. It shows Lieutenant James Cook arriving in New South Wales.

Can you see the Gweagal people in the background?
